CURRENT EVENTS.

Washington is again the centre of attraction.

The Chief Clerk of the Senate, Gen. Win. Hickey, who for almost a generation has acted through all changes of parties and administrations, has gone to his rest. He was an estimable man.

The citizens of our State are petitioning Congress against the renewal of the Reciprocity Treaty.

The colored men of the South are largely petitioning Congress for the right of suffrage. They seem to have a wide spread idea of their abnormal position at present, and see that suffrage is the only true protection against the rapacity and hate of their former masters.

—The Reconstruction Committee propose to follow Carl Schurz's advice in his report, and send a sub-committee South to investigate matters. The true way is to go singly, incognito, and then the real state of affairs can be reached.

—It is said that Gen. Grant opposes the re-admission of the rebel States at present.

—Congress has passed a resolution in favor of continuing the military occupation of rebel States, and also to expel polygamy from the Territories.

We predict a brush with Brigham Young yet.

—122 Generals are mustered out. Amen! Generals Wilcox, Williams and Custar, of our State, are of the number. Napoleon says he will withdraw French troops from Mexico when Maximilian is recognized by our government.

Seward replies that the latter thing can't be done.

—A recent meeting was held in Cooper Institute, strongly enforcing the Monroe Doctrine.

—The commerce of Western rivers is immense. There are 910 steamers engaged in it, worth $24,500,000.

—Senator Sumner is on a sharp look out in reference to the treacherous ways of slavery. It seems that freedmen are kidnapped on our Southern coast and taken to Cuba.

—The celebrated historian, Geo. Bancroft, is to pronounce the eulogy upon President Lincoln.

Jed Davis is arraigned for treason and complicity in the sufferings inflicted upon our imprisoned boys.

So say Secretary Stanton and Speed. His trial is delayed on account of the convictions of the President that he should be tried in the State where his treason took place.

Chief Justice Chase is unwilling to hold his court outside the Union in a rebel State.

The new suffrage bill for the District of Columbia will probably apply to both white and black, extending the right to all who can read and write.

—The Fenian Congress has abolished the Roberts' Senate and sustain McMahon in all his powers, in fact enlarged his powers.

—Fires are the order of the day. Several places in our State have suffered severely.

Pontiac and Jackson. At the latter place friend Dickinson's establishment had a narrow escape.

—12,900 troops are to be mustered out in Texas.

—Last Monday was the coldest day in New York city, for the last twenty-five years.

The thermometer stood 31 degrees below zero.

—Gold 138 1/2.

Gough's Lecture.

Last year you took pencil and paper to give an account of Gough's lecture. It was a vain attempt. We might as well have attempted to describe the forked lightning in its flashing zigzag course. This year we went pencilless and paperless, bound to enjoy it.
And there were not a few others in for the same. Such a crowd never before jammed into Hewitt Hall. We were near a half hour pressing our way from the basement into the hall. The through slowly and wearily making progress between the narrow passage ways, now at a stand for 5 minutes and then taking a single step forward, took it in good part.
Flashes of wit and tokens of gallantry flew in all directions. The lecture was capital, but not up to some former occasions when we have heard him. He spoke two hours and a quarter, not a child in the compact audience that was not wide awake at the close and wishing him to go on. He made some grand points. The drunkard is not a fool, though a debased slave, drink befalls degrades and bedevils. The man with fine nerves and sensibilities is blamed for being a sot because he can't stand a quarter that the lymphatic man can, who while guz-zling all the time only feels comfortable under it. He developed how completely liquor subjugates the will of its victims. When the silly young man begins to tamper with liquor he ridicules the idea of ever becoming a victim. "He says I can if I please but I don't please." "I can if I will but I won't." Becoming subjugated, inevitable consequences, he says I would but I can't, O God, that I could, but I am powerless. He related several anecdotes and facts amusing and sad, laughable and distressing, witty and terrible, illustrating the varied influence of liquor upon different brains, all the phases of an awful fact. They are the revelations of a crushed and besotted humanity. In all the wide creation of God none but man is found willing to thus yield to debauchery.
His description of the capabilities of man was impressively grand. In contrast, the pit of woe into which drunkenness sinks the man and the soul was overwhelmingly terrific. His annihilation of the various excuses offered by young men who refuse to take the pledge was complete. His first view of Mt. Blanc carried the entire audience with him and awoke in each similar emotions.
He closed by a beautiful and glowing tribute to the triumphs of war in the overthrow of slavery, a touching eulogy upon the lamented and unreturning brave, and then carried his audience to the mount of glorious victory when the last drum shall be closed, the last drunkard lost, and tears shall be wiped away from all eyes.

Agricultural Journals.

The Prince of agricultural papers in this Country is the American Agriculturist. Its thorough discussion of all that pertains to the farm, garden, and household, makes it almost a necessity not only in every farmer's family, but in every household. Its pages are full, readable, and complete. It gives the most reading for the least money of any agricultural paper in the country. Its cuts and illustrations are of the first order. The January number has a splendid engraving of the "Auburn Horse" owned by Bonner of the N.
Y. Ledger. Bonner paid $13,000 for him and would not sell him for three times the money.
The Turkey's Holiday is amusing and unique.
Both old and young may gaze with pleasure upon this picture. See column to direct.

The Western Rural published at Detroit and Chicago is a well known paper. It is an able advocate of western interests. It is a weekly and develops a live enterprise deserving of rich success. It commends itself to western farmers, because it so strenuously advocates their claims. For varied and interesting reading matter, it is unsurpassed.
As we have had occasion to say before, we repeat, if you can take but one patronize your home institution. If you can take another you will not fail to take the Agricultur-ist. Subscriptions for both these Journals are taken at Hallecks News Office.

The Michigan Teacher

Is a new element to public favor. It especially appeals to the friends of education throughout the State. It is the Teachers Advocate and friend. It is the organ of the State Teachers Association. It has the aid of able Contributors. The friends of a broad, sound, common-sense education of which there are many in this community will extend a generous patronage. It is published at Niles Mich., by "Paine" & Whitney.
For sale at Hallecks.

Wheeler & Wilson.

It is a conceded fact that the Wheeler and Wilson Sewing Machine is superior to any other. It is saying a good deal. One thing is certain that those who are so fortunate as to possess one, would not part with it on any terms. Mr. S. VanDusen is the agent for Ypsilanti and a thorough going active one.

Improvements.

We notice with pleasure that our fellow citizen Mr. J. F. Smith has made a great improvement in the western part of the city.
He has added another story to his dwelling house on the corner of Congress and Normal Streets. He has also replaced the former frame addition for one of brick, and moved the frame to an adjoining lot attaching an upright and thus making another handsome dwelling. We suggest that his neighbor Mr.
Klock "go and do likewise."

At the second Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of the Ypsilanti Woolen Manufacturing Company, held at their office Monday, January 8th, 1865, the following Directors were elected for the ensuing year: D. L.
Quirk, Asa Dow, J. Bickford, I. N. Conklin, H. E. Champion.

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, the following officers for the ensuing year were elected:
D. L. Quirk, President.
I. N. Conklin, Vice-President.
J. Bickford, Secretary.
I. N. Conklin, Treasurer.

DIED.

KILPATRICK—In Ypsilanti Sunday Jan.
7th, 1865, Samuel Kilpatrick, aged 65 years.
The deceased was born in Maryland in the year 1800. At the age of 18 he left the land of slavery and went to western New York.
At the age 32 he caught the western fever and came to Mich. settling in Ypsilanti 33 years ago. He was an active energetic man, thorough in what he undertook. He owned a farm some two miles south of the city, but never farmed it very much. At an early day he devoted considerable time to locating new lands for emigrants. He has been elected Constable several times. He also served as deputy Sheriff and United States Marshal.
He was a first class officer, vigilant and active. In later years he has been chiefly known in community as an auctioneer of superior abilities. His services were in demand far and wide. A few weeks ago an advertiser by him we wrote an article describing his peculiar traits and gifts as the prince of auctioneers. We said:

"A six footer, like King Saul, head and shoulders above his contemporaries, he stands among the crowd, attracted by his stentorian voice, master of the situation.
Surrounded by a pile of wares, chatties, et cetera, Kilpatrick is in his glory—his eyes flash fire, his quick eye glances over the crowd, he knows his men and the man that with a $5.00 bill in his pocket can carry it home has passed through a sweating ordeal.
He can withstand the prince of temptation. He has all the arts of his profession at command. He flashes with electric wit, putting the crowd into good humor with himself, with him, and everybody. And again he is as serious as a preacher and gives his hearers a homily on morals, caudid as a judge, he addresses the convicts, making a man believe that the thing in hand is just the thing he needs. He touches the key note to the pocket of the miser and the covetous alike gentle and winning as a woman, if needs be or as gruff and stern as Giant Despair.
Pats the crowd, commending their receptivity in absorbing his goods, or scolds like a very vixen, and browbeats the hesitating, awe-stricken multitude into brisk purchases.
Through advancing in age, when most men sicken, repose, yet his eye is not dim, nor his natural force abated. He still accents the auctioneer's call. He bids fair to be the king auctioneer of Ypsilanti for many years to come."

How blind we are as to the future.
In his accustomed avocation the cold icy hand of death is laid upon him. He had scarcely left the auction stand when as was his wont he extends that large brawny hand to give the warm grasp, and lo! it falls powerless by his side. The giant, strong, manly frame succumbs to a paralytic stroke, and he sinks on the side walk uttering his last audible exclamation, "O my God!" This was a half past three on Saturday last. At 7 o'clock the next morning the spirit had fled The funeral exercises were held at the M. E.
Church, Rev. Mr. Hickey preaching from 1st Chron. 29, 15th verse.

"For we are strangers before thee and sojourners, as were all our fathers. Our days on the earth are as a shadow, and there is none abiding." These were the words of the departed. He was a most excellent and instructive discourse. He stated that the deceased felt deeply on the subject of religion. He had no more attentive or punctual auditor. Last Christmas Sabbath, while discoursing upon the love of Christ, he saw the great tears rolling down his cheeks. He seemed to have premonitions of his approaching end. He said to his wife, "I'll live another week I shall leave my business in order." Ere a week passed his earthly journey was ended. Only the Thursday before his death, scarcely three days, he purchased a lot in our beautiful Highland Cemetery. He was to be the first one to occupy it. "Be ye also ready, for in an hour when ye think not the Son of man cometh." A true and worthy Mason, he was buried with all the honors and speaking rites of that mystic body.

ANOTHER ENCAGEMENT!

While the attention of the enemy is fully engaged by Grant, the attention of the general public is no less engaged by CRISTADORO'S HAIR DYE, which is accomplishing wonders in the way of beautifying heads that age or sickness, or capricious nature has disfigured with unsightly hues. Milton says truly that "Peace hath its victories no less renowned than war."

Manufactured by J. Cristadoro, No. 6 Astor House, New York. Sold by all druggists, applied by all hair dressers.
Nervous Debility, Seminal weakness, etc.
Can be cured, by one who has really cured himself and hundreds of others, and will tell you nothing but the truth. Address with

FARM & HOUSEHOLD.

TAKE good care of stock - shelter them. Good shelter is equal to four quarts of oats or a dozen ears of corn a day. Now is the time to get up wood for the entire year. Get some logs in to the mill for lumber, you'll need it in the spring for repairs etc.

THE VEGETATION AND THE EX-TRAVAGANCE OF CALIFORNIA.

All the vegetation of California is monstrous in growth. Strawberries as big as hen's eggs, one of which sold at a Sanitary fair for a dollar. Indeed, eggs have sometimes sold in market at seven to ten dollars per dozen. We have no conception of the extravagance of the people. They never think of the price of anything so long as they have the money. They live on their capital instead of their income, and begin anew every year. A lazy stage-driver will toss the stable-boy, who waters his horse, a silver half-dollar, as if it were but two cents. Judging from their generosity, we think this people must be immensely rich; but they are poor - keep themselves so by their extravagance; no population in the world, living at the same rate, has so little.

But the great crop - Green vegetables are to be had through the whole year, and in size they beat nature. A respectable Presbyterian clergyman told me he planted a peach-pip, and in fourteen months it had grown to a tree ten feet high, and he ate peaches grown upon it. Now you don't believe this, but it is true. One man cut a stick which he carried as a cane for a week or two, and then sticking it into the ground as a support for a weak sapling, it sprouted, and in two years he gathered a peck of pears from that very cane! We have no conception of the activity of the soil. Prodigious crops of wheat and oats are raised; and as to peaches, plums, and pears, why, I should stain my character for vanity should I give you the facts about them. Pears weigh five and six pounds; grapes weigh four and a half pounds to the bunch. It is the greatest grape-growing country in the world; they are produced in the greatest profusion - grapes for breakfast and grapes for dinner - and yet they are not cheap, because labor enters into their cultivation, and labor is high. So nothing is cheap, though it is picked up in the streets, because the man who picks it, it up will charge you a quarter for stooping down and picking it up. All vegetables, potatoes, turnips etc., are sold by the pound, and you can imagine what the bills must be. Address by Rev. Dr. Ballou.

A PRATT ON THE WINDOW.

I wish I knew what that cow is thinking about; how lazily she stands there, switching her sides with her tail, and looking up and down the meadow. I am no judge of cows, but I think that is a pretty cow. Any lady might be proud of her great, soft brown eyes. I am glad she does not know that one of these days, the butchers will thump her on the head, and sell her for beef. I am glad she does not know that the pretty little calf, which frolics by her side, will be eaten for real next week. Much away old cows, and enjoy the fresh clover while you can; I don't believe you have any idea what a pretty picture you and your baby calf make as you stand with your heads in the brook and bend your heads to drink. I like to think, though I know it is not so (because you have no soul, old cow), that when you raise your head from the brook and lift it toward the sky, you are thinking of him who made the pretty clover and the brook to flow. And now the little calf is nursing. Pull away, little rogue! if you have not a better right to your mother's milk than Sally, the dairy-maid, I will agree to go without butter; pull away, it does me good to see you; now kick up your heels and run like mischief over the meadow; see the old cow blink and wink, as she looks after her, as if to say, Well, well, I was young myself once; calves will be calves; spite of cows. And there is a hen and her cunning little chickens; I should like to catch that tiny white one, which blows over the meadow like a piece of cotton wool, and cuddle her right up in my neck; I am sure the old hen would not object if she knew how I liked chickens; but she don't and she would probably take me for a high-wayman, and I can't have my character called in question that way, even by a hen; besides her beak is sharp, and so are her claws. I think I had better admire her little soft white baby chickens at a distance. Nice little thing, how glad I am that it does not have to be fixed up in lace and embroidery, every morning, and a nurse rubbing its nose under to rub it off, every time a straw breeze makes it sneeze; how glad I am the little thing can roll and tumble in the grass, instead of being stewed up in a hot nursery and sheltered under a load of crib-blankets, till all its strength oozes out in perspiration; dear little chick, I hope you will find plenty of worms to eat, and I hope no old rooster will cut your ears for doing it. I hope you will have the downiest side of your mother's wing to sleep under, and plenty of meal and water when worms are scarce. But, see there is a shower coming up; you had better scamper under the shed; don't you see that beautiful zigzag lightning darting out of that dark cloud? and don't you see that lovely blue sky over yonder, peaceful as the good man's soul when the cloud of trouble threatens him? No little chick, you don't notice it a bit; you are only chasing your mother, and trying to dodge the raindrops, well, pretty as you are, I would rather be born with a soul; I am glad my soul will live millions of years after you are dead; I want to know so much that puzzles me here on earth, but which I am willing to believe is all right, until God himself explains it all to me. I am glad I am not a little chick without a soul, because I want to learn about it in heaven. - Panny Fern.

FACTS ARE STUBBORN THINGS!

Hear what the Philadelphia correspondent says in the Commonwealth, Wilmington, Delaware, 9th of April, 1865.

An English gentleman, formerly connected with the British Army, and who styles himself the "English Botanic Physician," has of late gained an extensive reputation here by his skill in curing all manner of complaints. Some of his patients I have conversed with, and they pronounce him to be a man of great energy and power, and who has been restored to his full vigor by his medicine. The medicine he used is distilled by himself from various herbs and roots, and is of great value.

While acting in the army he devoted his leisure moments to a thorough study of the effects produced by the various medicinal plants and herbs on the human system. It seems he has found a sure and speedy remedy for all the diseases which are caused by the use of alcohol, and is daily increasing in the number of his patients. The complaints to which he is called are of the most serious nature, and he has been successful in curing many of them. He has been successful in curing many of them.

Some physicians require to be told the nature of your disease. The ENGLISH BOTANIC PHYSICIAN does not. His perfect knowledge of the human system enables him to diagnose the disease without any information from the patient, to explain its original cause, and to guarantee its cure. And, what is more valuable still, he will tell you early and frankly what you can be cured of, or not. This will satisfy your mind, and save you expense, time, trouble, and disappointment. It will save your health, and what is better than all, it will save your life from being shattered by some treatment.

His examinations are made without any information from the patient; therefore, no matter how much the patient's condition and physical development, without which he never could have performed so many astonishing cures. It should be remembered that the English Botanic Physician performs cures through impossible.
